

Portfolio Examples/Builder/Reference

Colin Moy

My first example is Colin Moy, whose portfolio caught my eye due to simplistic but well layered out portfolio. He has a creative layout composing with intro page that has an interesting eye design which follows user's mouse. It uses good solid colors of yellow and black this allows the design to pop out. I really enjoy the navigation of this portfolio due to the way the portfolio is sectioned with each part being separated but keeping in theme with one another. There is also an easy good 3 sections with about, portfolio/prior work examples and contact info. They drop down containing more information when hovered over. I really enjoy how the sectioned areas expand with information preventing clunkiness/making the website look very clear and nice when opened. I like the eye themed motif being kept throughout the whole portfolio from the intro to about section where “O” looks like eyes to the about section having an iris and pupil design and color scheme.

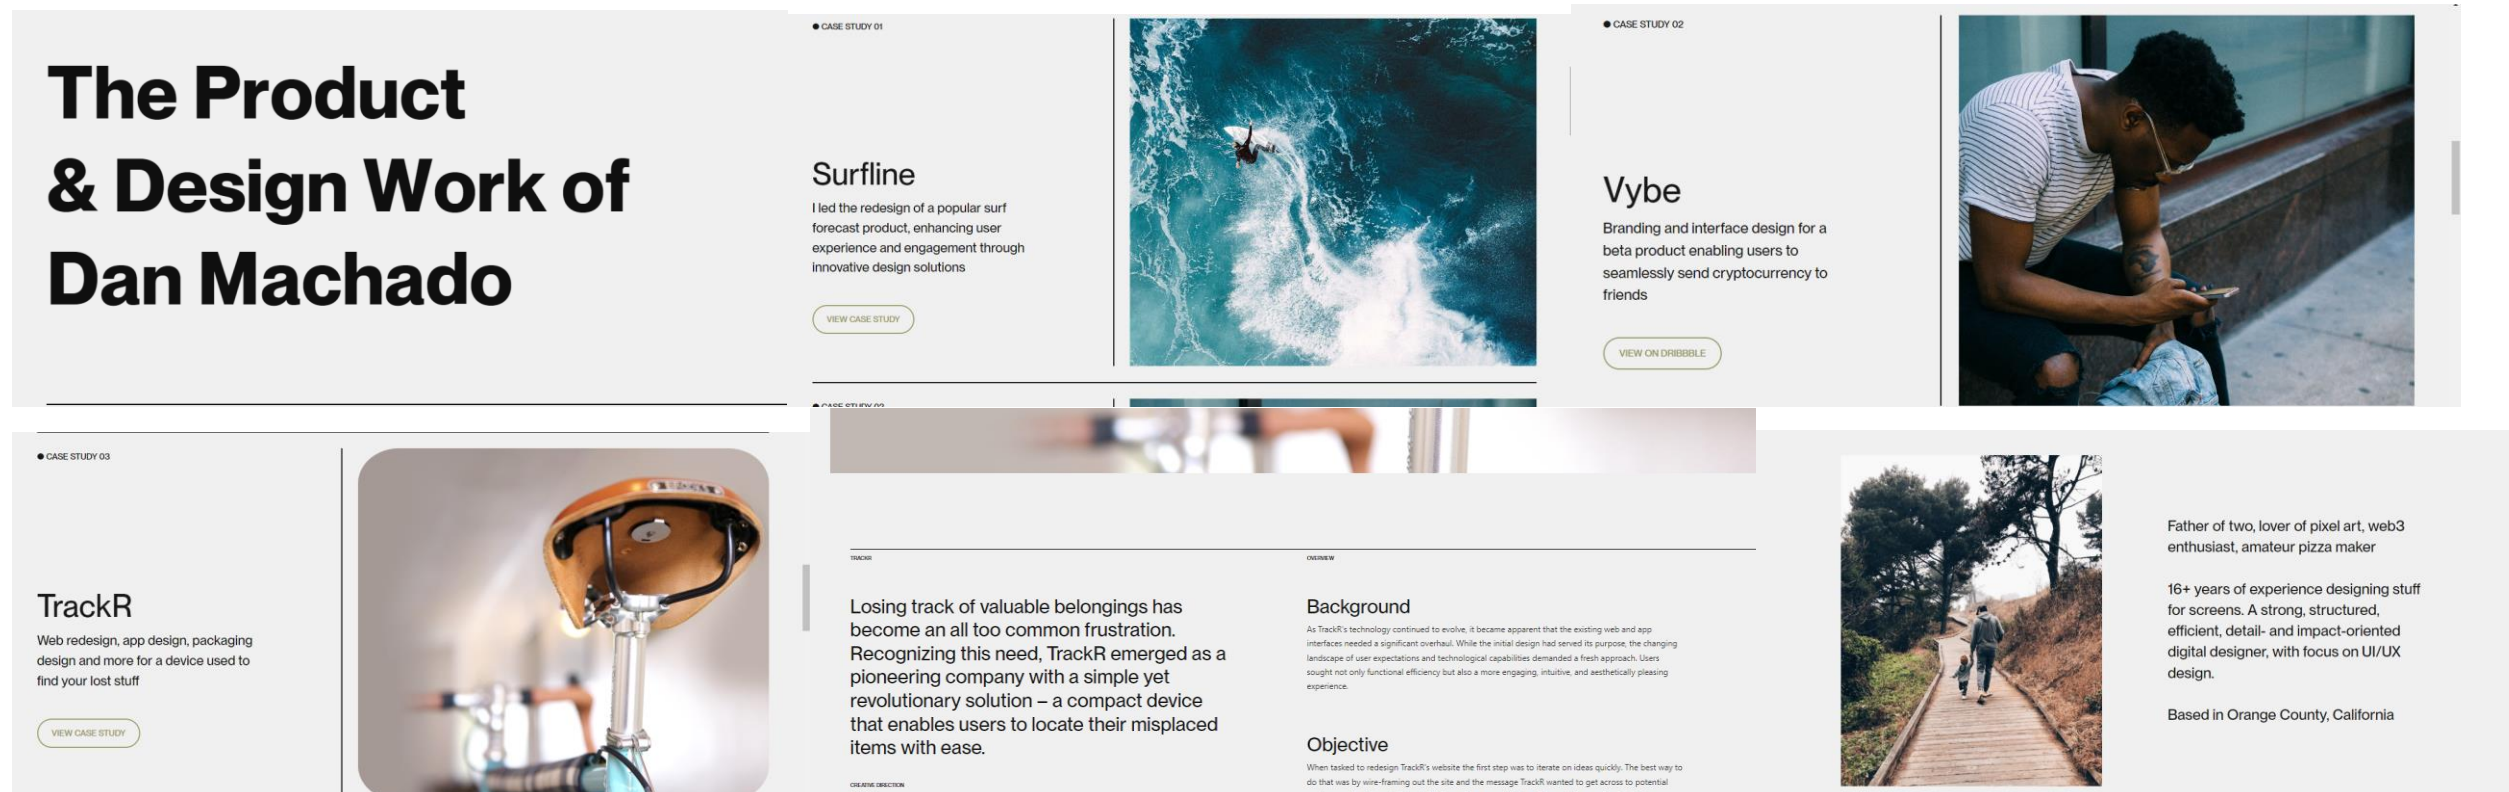

The items I like the most/would want implemented from this site are:

- Layout – I like the simple but expansive way the portfolio is built, it is easy on the eye and easy to navigate thanks to simple design.
- Navigation – I like how easy and clear the form of navigation is, everything is sectioned but still manages to keep cohesiveness.
- Themed – I like how the site has a clear theme and how it keeps to it and its easy inclusion/execution of its implementation.
- Colors – I like the concise, solid complimentary colors of the site.
- <https://webflow.com/made-in-webflow/website/COLIN-MOY>

Dan Macho

My second example is Dan Macho, this portfolio I like its layout in sense that it is well sectioned and categorized which can be delved into deeper if gone into the section. The example being Track R where it has a small synopsis of itself before going into it, this makes sure the site isn't overwhelming when first opened. It instead let's all e information be place/given when the user goes into the section to find out more such as background, objective, thoughts etc. I like the typography of the site with clear titling and a nice format however I believe it should have been larger as it leaves too much white space. I like the information that is presented/bio on the creator/Dan alongside information such as backstories and purpose of the branding/ designs he created. I like the inclusion of the imagery of the projects that have been created/developed which gives a clear instant idea of what was made thanks to the short synopsizes beside the images.

The items I like the most/would want implemented from this site are:

- Typography – I like the font that's used, however I believe it should be larger leaving less whit space on the site.
- Explanations/Synopsizes – I like the explanations and backstories behind the work that is given, it gives the user quick indication of the work done and its reasoning. It also works well thanks to the images showcasing what the project is.
- Bio – I like the biography section as it gives an idea of what the creator is and their goals and allows for the user to trust more. It gives a quick impression of what the creator is/ their strengths and a bit of backstory.
- Layout – I like the sectioned approach allowing the user to explore what the prior work is without overwhelming user with information but instead giving I in small doses allowing the user to find out more on the projects they want to investigate.
- <https://www.danmachado.com/>